DID YOUR PROPERTY VALUE GO UP?

How do we value properties in Detroit ?

Michigan law requires using an economic condition factor (ECF) or neighborhood in the valuation process. An ECF takes the cost approach from the Assessor Manual and modifies those values to the local market.

This ensures that every assessor in Michigan values property the same way. The ECF is used to distinguish the different markets in Michigan.

Both building type and geographic location are used for residential properties. Similar properties in similar neighborhoods are compared to determine value. A bungalow would never be compared to a two-family flat, nor would a residential property on the west side be compared to a similar property on the east side.

Commercial and Industrial properties also use an ECF based on the property type. However, the only geographic distinction Detroit uses for its commercial and industrial properties is between Downtown Detroit and the rest of the city.

New for 2024

Changes to state law allow the assessor to extend the HOPE exemption to those property owners whose sole source of income is from:

- Social Security
- Supplemental Social Security
- Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDIB)

The Assessor is required to perform periodical audits to ensure that anyone who receives the extension qualifies.

New for 2024

Changes to state law allow the assessor to grant disabled veterans an exemption for property taxes. It also allows the assessor to extend the exemption without the need for a yearly application.

The assessor is required to audit this program to ensure that anyone granted the disabled veterans exemption actually qualified for the exemption.

When you give blood, you help save lives!

Blood Services – The Need

Every blood donation is important, maintaining a diverse blood supply is our priority. Diverse blood donors may have the unique ability to help patients with different illnesses or inherited diseases.

- Every two seconds someone in America needs blood.
- Blood drive partners are a crucial link in the lifesaving chain of getting blood from donors to patients who need it.

Blood is needed for:

- Sickle cell disease
- Cancer treatments
- Leukemia
- Mothers giving birth
- Premature babies
- Accidents/trauma victims
- Open heart surgeries
- Hip replacements
- Prostate cancer surgeries
and many others...

Emergency blood shortage may delay medical procedures

The American Red Cross continues to experience an emergency blood shortage. Over the last 20 years, the number of people donating blood to the Red Cross has fallen by more than 40%. When fewer people donate blood, even small disruptions to blood donations – such as the nearly 7,000-unit shortfall in blood donations the Red Cross experienced between Christmas and New Year’s Day alone – can have a huge impact on the availability of blood products and dramatic consequences for those in need of emergency blood transfusion such as sickle cell patients.

Blood products are currently going to hospitals faster than blood donations are coming in, and in recent weeks, the Red Cross has had to limit distributions of type O blood products – among the most transfused blood types – to hospitals.

Did you know?
Black and Latino populations have higher frequency of type O blood than other races and ethnicities and play a critical role in meeting the need for type O blood.

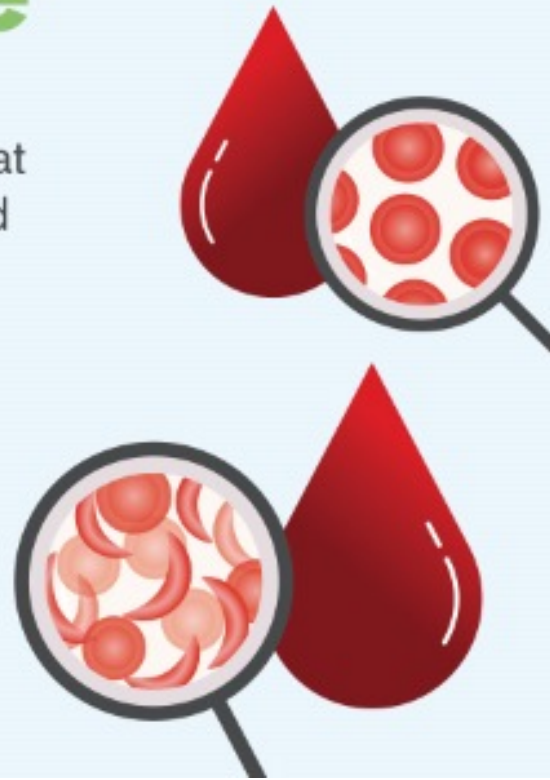

The infographic features a yellow background with white text. At the bottom, there is an illustration of a person with dark hair and a blue shirt lying in a chair, donating blood. A red tube is connected to their arm. In the bottom right corner, there is a small American Red Cross logo and the letters 'A R'.

Sickle Cell Disease

A blood disorder that distorts soft & round red blood cells...

...into hard and crescent shapes. This can cause extreme pain.

Lives about 120 days

Normal Red Blood Cell

Soft and round

Blood flows freely in blood vessels

Lives about 15 days

Sickled Red Blood Cell

Hard and crescent shaped

Blood flow could be blocked vs.

As a result of the disease, blood has difficulty flowing smoothly and carrying oxygen to the rest of the body.

Sickle cell is the most common blood disorder in the U.S.

1 in 3 African American donors are a match for patients with sickle cell disease.

Certain blood characteristics are inherited, making them more likely to be found within certain donor groups. By indicating your race & ethnicity when donating, you help the Red Cross better & more efficiently meet the needs of patients of all backgrounds.

How Can You Help?

- Help build awareness of the need and benefits with your employees, members and community
  - Get engaged
    - Donate Blood
  - Host Blood Drives
    - Churches, community centers, businesses
  - Sponsor Virtual Blood Drives
    - Blood link
- When you donate blood and mark your race on the blood donor record, you are taking that extra step toward specifically helping individuals with sickle cell disease or rare blood types.
- When you check your race, you help the Red Cross better search for rare blood types to best meet the needs of patients of all backgrounds.

Make your donation count and  your race!
