Hello,

I am writing about the proposed demolition of the building at 1501-1567 Church Street for a new parking garage.

As a resident of Church Street, I have a view of this historic building from my home at 10th Street and Church, just a few hundred feet from it. It would set a very negative precedent if the developers were allowed to demolish this building. It is one of the few remaining larger historic buildings in the neighborhood. There are plenty of empty lots surrounding it throughout the Corktown area, which would be more suitable for building a parking structure on. I plan to attend the meeting later today to voice my concerns about this proposed development.

Thank you,
