To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you on behalf of the Detroit Waldorf School(DWS) for permanent approval of their outdoor classrooms. As a 20-year, maintenance manager at American Axle & Manufacturing in Detroit, I recognize professionally designed buildings that are built to withstand the elements through the use quality materials and construction. Each classroom is a sound, organic environment that has enhanced the learning experience for the students and teachers, as well as, the exterior landscape of the school. As a DWS parent, I am very pleased to see my child's connection to the natural world grow, because the school has expanded the learning experience outdoors. We should all be grateful for Waldorf's commitment & creativity toward learning because students can be actively engaged with the sights, sounds and touch of the community while they are getting a quality education. Thank you for your attention.
