No worries, 11am works even better for me to be honest. I really am open to any ideas and suggestions Audra, I didn't even think of a floor to ceiling window, a friend actually suggested it after I brought up your concerns about being able to match the existing stucco as well as it possibly looking awkward. Although the hedges would require far more work, I'd rather have 3ft hedges than nothing at all, it would still prevent my grandchildren from running into the street, I would ask that I be allowed to put up something historic for a little gate, so that it's properly closed in, the roofing company said they have worked in our neighborhood and with the board, they also install soffits and fascia and gutters that were previously approved, so that's a plus...
